

coding (the) architecture

Documenting your software architecture - why and how?

www.codingthearchitecture.com

Simon Brown

Hands-on software
architect

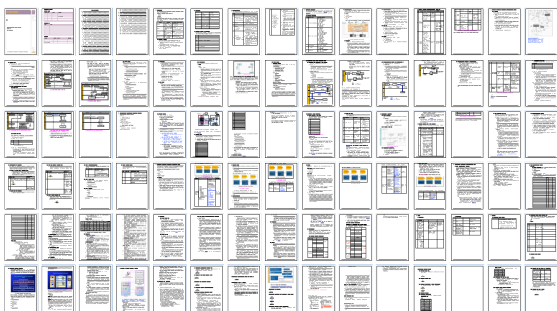

coding
(the)
architecture

The (infamous) software
architecture
document

Too big

Outdated

Nobody reads
them

A description of the software architecture is useful and often essential

Any type of project,
any size of project

The software architecture document should describe what the code itself doesn't

The slides for this presentation are available to download

<http://www.software-architect.co.uk>
<http://www.codingthearchitecture.com>